A. Short-term study abroad

Short-term study abroad are often a requirement for entering the professional scientific sphere. Mobility of academic staff and students is ensured by international agreements, contracts and exchange programmes, including:

- Erasmus+
- CEEPUS
- DAAD
- Aktion
- Fulbright
- NAWA - Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange

B. Long term study abroad

In addition to short-term internships, it is also possible to complete an entire study abroad, receive a foreign scientific degree and be a student of Charles University at the same time.

Programmes are used for such studies:

- Joint Degree & Multiple Degree
- Cotutelle

The doctoral student can complete a full course of study within an internationally accredited degree programme and receive one (Joint Degree) or more (Multiple Degree) degrees or complete a doctorate in two departments under dual supervision (cotutelle).

Comparison Joint Degree vs Cotutelle
SYLFF Fellowship Program

SYLFF provides a maximum of two years of financial support to students of PhD programmes in the social sciences or humanities for writing their dissertations. An important criterion for supporting specific research is its contribution to society.

More info HERE.
The application deadline is April 29th, 2023.

LERU Doctoral Summer School 2023 Heidelberg

We offer for doctoral students one place at the prestigious summer school LERU (The League of European Research Universities), which will take place on 2-8th July 2023.

WHAT: LERU doctoral summer school
WHERE: HEIDELBERG UNIVERSITY
WHEN: 2. 7. 2023 - 8. 7. 2023

TOPIC: Concepts of intervention science applied to global challenges
The participation fee of 600 Euro, which covers teaching materials, accommodation, meals and transport around Heidelberg, is paid by Heidelberg University.
Travel costs will be reimbursed by Charles University (rectorate), the selected student will be informed about the process.

More information you can found HERE.
Students can register until 17. 3. 2023 to email: adela.jiroudkova@ruk.cuni.cz by sending: name, field of study, title of dissertation or specialization, CV and motivation letter, all in English.
From the registered candidates, one will then be selected to participate on behalf of Charles University.